

The California Association of Sanitation Agencies (CASA) is hosting its 2015 Public Policy Forum on April 27 and 28 at the Sheraton Grand in Sacramento. Attendees will have the opportunity to hear from state elected officials and subject matter experts on important issues such as the future of renewable energy in the state and the latest developments with Proposition 218. The theme of the event is “The Power of Water” and as wastewater agencies move toward a utility of the future model, enhancing your knowledge of resource recovery efforts and the latest developments in renewable energy policy has never been more important. [Register today]

This year Assembly Member Jacqui Irwin will give the opening address and discuss her transition from local government to the state Legislature. Other speakers and panelists include Colin Grinnell of the Senate Governance and Finance Committee, Jay Dickenson of the Senate Energy, Utilities and Communications Committee, and Caitrin Chappelle of the Public Policy Institute of California (PPIC). Assembly Member Brian Maienschein, Chair of the Assembly Local Government Committee, will close the forum and talk about issues of interest to the local government community.

For complete information regarding the Public Policy Forum visit CASA's website and register today.