5. Homeless Encampment cleanup

Ryan DeBaeke and Zilverio Rivera, Police Officers from the City of Petaluma, provided a presentation presentation on the logistical challenges associated with addressing the City's homeless population. The Police coordinate with the City's Public Works department to address the health and safety issues. They spoke to the issues associated with providing shelter beds and services, as well as some of the hazards and difficulties from cleaning up abandoned homeless encampments, which are a major source of trash in the watershed. They previously had a grant to cover some of the costs associated with cleanup, and plan to continue the work. Petaluma used some of the SEP money associated with an SSO violation to cover the costs of purchasing cleanup equipment.

Sam Dodge, a Homelessness Coordinator with San Francisco Public Works, discussed San Francisco's approach in pairing social workers with law enforcement to move homeless residents into shelter and services. He described how San Francisco removes large encampments and ensures they do not come back to the same location.
